SNOW BOTTLENECK BROKEN

U. S. ROUTE 50 is an all-year road, now, and scenes like this one will be the exception rather than the rule in the future. This picture shows a view in the summit area last March. Plenty of snow there for winter sports. The picture is a courtesy of "California Highways," official journal of the State Department of Public Works.

Don't Forget!

U. S. 50 IS AN ALL-YEAR ROAD

Tell Your Friends!

A Review Of Snow Removal On Echo Summit, Which Makes U. S. 50 An All-Year Road, As Reported In "California Highways"

For the first time in its history as a transcontinental route dating from the pony express and pioneer stage coach days, U. S. Highway 50 will become an all-year highway as a result of the decision of the California Highway Commission in a meeting August 29th to provide the funds for snow removal equipment and crews to keep the road open this winter over the Echo Summit and Meyers grade bottleneck in the high Sierras of El Dorado County.

Immediately following the Commission's authorization the needed new snow plows were ordered by the Division of Highways and construction for housing crews and equipment is now under way.

U. S. 50 begins at San Francisco and extends to the Atlantic seaboard through Washington, D. C., and Annapolis. From Sacramento it gradually climbs via Folsom, Placerville and Kyburz to Echo Summit, elevation 7,394 feet and thence down Meyers Grade and along the southern shores of Lake Tahoe to Carson City, Nevada, and points East.

The 20 miles of highway through the high country and over the summit from Kyburz to Meyers has a total snow fall throughout the winter somewhat greater than on the Donner Summit which in severe winters exceeds 500 inches with an average snow pack of about nine feet. Because the narrow old roadway through this section of National Forest and many hairpin turns in Meyers grade east of the summit rendering the operation of big modern rotary snow plows impractical, the Division of Highways has heretofore only kept the road open to Kyburz and vicinity.

Two years ago the Federal Road Bureau began construction of a 2.3 mile unit of wider and safer highway on the new alignment eliminating a number of the sharp turns and grades which was completed July, 1940, and work has already started on another unit to modernize the remainder of Meyers grade to the lake valley.

At the meeting of the Highway Commission at Glin's Al Tahoe on August 29th, the matter of keeping the road open all through the winter was brought to the attention of the Commission by Director of Public Works Frank W. Clark who stated that Governor Culbert L. Olson urged that it be done for the benefit of the public of the entire state as well as for the interests of several thousand business men and residents of the southern Lake Tahoe region. He said that the Nevada Highway authorities had been keeping U. S. 50 open through the winter to the California State line and promised they would continue to do so and cooperate in every respect.

Urged by Civic Bodies

President John T. Nicholson and Committee Chairman Louis Bartlett of the Open Highway 50 Association explained the urgency of the situation from the viewpoint of the business men and residents of the Lake region and predicted the highway would develop a recreational patronage as large in winter as it is in summer. Other speakers included Senator H. E. Dillinger and Mayor Charles Molinari of Placerville; Judge Andrew Pierovich of Jackson; and representatives of the Redwood Empire Association, State Chamber of Commerce, cities of San Francisco, Oakland and Stockton and a number of other civic bodies.

Asked by Commissioner Nielsen what additional equipment and force the Division of Highways would need to keep the highway open, State Highway Engineer C. H. Purcell said two large type rotary snowplows and two four-wheel drive trucks and push plows would have to be purchased at once and quarters provided for a crew of 20 men to work day and night shifts.

Maintenance Engineer Tom Denins explained that four buildings would be necessary including a two-story bunkhouse, like the one on the Donner Summit station; a boiler house, a truck and plow garage and a storage house for gas, oil

FIRES PLAGUE COUNTY FOR WEEKEND

3,000 Acres Burned Over Near Shingle; Rupley Home Lost At Diamond Springs

The combination of deer hunting season and a high wind, coupled with ordinary fire hazards produced a series of fires which made the weekend one of the most serious of the season in the county.

Hunters, however, were not chargeable with responsibility for all of the fires.

The old Charles Schroeder home at Diamond Springs, owned by Elmer Rupley, was destroyed with virtually all of its contents Sunday morning. The two-story dwelling was set afire, apparently, by a spark from the chimney on the roof.

In the Mt. Aukum district, a barn and chicken house on the old Stevens place was destroyed Sunday morning by a fire which burned over three hundred acres and at Greenwood Sunday, a roof fire damaged a residence but, it was reported, not severely.

The largest fire of the weekend was a 3,000 acre brush fire south of Shingle Springs, which broke out Sunday morning and was brought under control about three o'clock Monday morning. The fire sent up spectacular clouds of smoke Sunday afternoon and was burning so briskly over such a large area by evening, that despite a break in the strong wind which had marked the day, it was several hours before State Division of Forestry firemen were able to control the blaze.

Coloma had a one-half acre grass fire Sunday night.

Eldorado Forest answered an alarm near Garden Valley early Monday, relieving the hard-worked state crews on a blaze near the "twilight zone" between state and federal lands.

The forest also had two fires near Strawberry on Sunday. It just happened that Ranger M. D. Morris was in the near vicinity at the time and the ranger and his men got to work on the first blaze just as it was crowning.

With a lot of good luck and an equal measure of hard work, this blaze was nipped in the bud but the foresters didn't need to look for new worlds to conquer for a short distance away a log was ablaze.

Foresters learned the blazes were the result of camp fires built by deer hunters. They had been covered over by the hunters before they left, but the high wind of the day was sufficient to fan the flames into action.

C. Wilkinson Is Mauled By Bull

Rancher Escapes With Cuts And Bruises In Incident Sunday Morning

Clarence Wilkinson, rancher on the Gold Hill road, escaped with cuts and bruises Sunday when he was knocked down and mauled by an infuriated bull on his ranch.

He was treated at Placerville Sanatorium following the experience and was returned to his home. Doctors said that he probably would be sore for several days.

Wilkinson was knocked down and butted and trampled upon by the bull and was able to attract the attention of Mrs. Wilkinson.

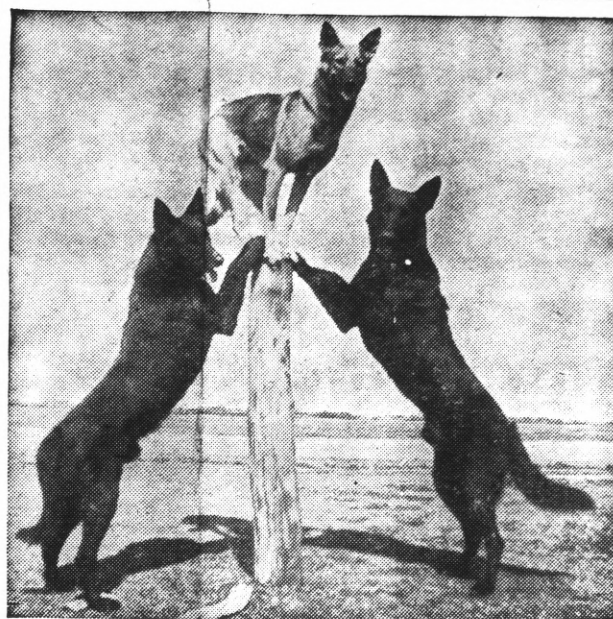

Her arrival distracted the bull's attention from Mr. Wilkinson long enough to permit him to scramble into a nearby tree around which the bull continued to paw and snort menacingly.

Richard Wilkinson, a son of the couple, obtained his father's shotgun and fired two charges at the animal, which proved sufficient to drive him off and Mr. Wilkinson was brought to the hospital.

It was understood that the bull was to be killed Monday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Neistrum have returned to their home at Pleasant Valley following a visit of several weeks with relatives at Long Beach and Beverly Hills.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Clifton were weekend visitors from Vallejo, but Clarence didn't take any venison home with him.

LOBO, JUNIOR AND QUEENIE, the fold-famous performing dogs, which will be seen in Placerville this coming Saturday, in appearance at the Lynn & O'Neill and Raley markets.

TRICK DOGS TO SHOW STUNTS

Lobo, Junior And Queenie Will Appear Saturday At 2 Placerville Markets

Lobo, Junior and Queenie, the world-famous Pard dogs, will appear at Lynn & O'Neill and at Raley's Markets, Saturday, Sept. 27th.

These dogs made a tremendous hit at Treasure Island last year and have been seen here before. They offer the kiddies a performance that will thrill everyone, from 6 to 60.

Trained to perform before the keen eye of the Movie camera these marvelous animals do all their stunts at the command of their trainer, Ray Courtwright, by obeying implicitly the signals he gives only with the use of his hands and fingers. Never does he shout a command, as they are trained to act on signal only.

As they go through their repertoire of dozens of spectacular stunts, you will be amazed and delighted at the novelty of their performance. Lobo, Junior and Queenie have entertained hundreds of folks all over the country and a request for repeat performances always follows the appearance of these wizards of dogdom.

The exact time of the four performances will be announced later in the week in advertisements by Raley's Market and Lynn & O'Neill's Grocery. Tell your friends to bring the kiddies. There is no charge whatever.

JOHN C. SALGADO DEAD; SERVICES WILL BE HELD TUESDAY

Last rites for John C. Salgado, 76, of Greenwood, will be held on Tuesday morning at 9:30 o'clock at St. Patrick's church. Interment will be at the family plot at Greenwood cemetery.

Mr. Salgado, native of Forest Hill and during the larger part of his life a resident of this county, passed away on Saturday at his residence.

Retired about twelve years ago after working for a number of years at Vallejo as a ship's carpenter, Mr. Salgado had been in reasonably good health until stricken by a stroke recently.

He is survived by two brothers, Charles and Alex Salgado, of Greenwood, and by several nieces and nephews.

The arrangements for the funeral services were concluded with the assistance of Memory Chapel.

BANK EXECUTIVES PAY COUNTY VISIT ON SATURDAY

A. P. Gianini, chairman of the board of Bank of America National Trust and Saving Association, and R. J. Barbieri, vice-president of the organization, were in Placerville Saturday afternoon to meet the employees of the Placerville branch of the bank.

Driver Dodges Death As Car Wrecks, Burns

Joseph Ciligiuri, manager in Placerville for the Lambert Marketing Company, fruit shipping concern, had a miraculous escape about midnight Monday morning when his car ran off the road, overturned and then burned.

The smash took place between the county fair grounds and Clark's Corners on U. S. 50. Ciligiuri was eastbound and was said to have been run off the road by the driver of one of two westbound cars, passing on the curve.

Doctors at Placerville Sanatorium said Monday that he had a severe scalp laceration (friends said it was closed with sixteen stitches) and burns on both hands. The car was a wreck.

Isabel Long Is Wed On Sunday

Church Wedding Unites Missouri Flat Girl And School Days Sweetheart

A large number of relatives and other friends of the contracting parties was in attendance at the Federated Church on Sunday afternoon when Miss Isabel Long and Daryl Prouty were wed before the Rev. J. R. Rudkin.

Following a reception at the Long family home in the Missouri Flat section, the couple left on a wedding trip which will take them into Oregon, and at the close of which they will make their home at Burney, where Mr. Prouty is employed by the Pacific Gas & Electric Company.

Their marriage follows a romance dating from their high school days at El Dorado County high school, where both were graduated.

Mrs. Prouty attended a secretarial school in Sacramento and within recent months resigned a position in the county assessor's office. In her high school days and since that time she has taken an active part in the work of Placerville Assembly, Order of the Rainbow for girls.

She is the elder daughter of Mrs. Isabel Long, of Missouri Flat.

Mr. Prouty, son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Prouty, of Redding, and formerly of this city, followed his high school training with a course at Sacramento Junior College, where he was active in sports.

We join other friends of the couple in every good wish.

$100,000 IS FIRE LOSS

$50,000 Produce Warehouse Blaze At Stockton Sifted For Arson Possibility

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—A series of fires, two believed to have been of incendiary origin, caused damage estimated at $100,000 in northern California yesterday.

Several forest fires near Angels camp, in Calaveras county, still were burning today, whipped by a high wind and exceptionally low humidity.

Three big produce freight sheds, two freight cars loaded with cans and large quantities of vegetables were destroyed in a fire that swept the Stockton produce district, with damage estimated at $50,000.

Federal Bureau of Identification agents investigated the possibility of arson after workmen said several fires broke out suddenly and simultaneously at both ends of the center of the 300-foot sheds.

Five firemen and policemen suffered burns as the blaze swept through the sheds, igniting sulphur, spray oil and paint. All of Stockton's fire equipment answered a general alarm.

A series of fires destroyed a 150-foot section of the Santa Cruz wharf, and again arson was suspected. Damage was about $10,000.

Twenty-five homes in the community of Broderick, across the Sacramento river from Sacramento, were destroyed by another blaze with damage of $25,000.

Four fires broke out near Angels Camp and the state division of forestry sent 11 trucks and more than 100 experienced fire fighters to the scene to assist volunteers.

The high wind which reached a velocity of 60 miles an hour in some sections, were expected to continue today.

BUCK HUNTER SUCCESSFUL BUT HE'LL NEED TO WASH HIS CAR

Kenneth Dudley, of Placerville, employed at the Army Air Base at Sacramento, killed his first buck Saturday morning, a three-pointer.

He was driving up the Green Valley road to meet friends at Diamond Springs, and came by that road just to look over some territory over which his friends had hunted last season.

In the Rescue district near the T & D ranch, he espied his buck, standing on the top of a little rise not far away, and "brought his down" with a shot in the throat.

But he didn't "bring him down" in the sense of dropping him. Instead, Mr. Buck charged directly toward the car and collapsed after he hit the side of the machine.

Friends said that Dudley "couldn't have done a better job of painting the car with a spray gun."

Placerville and former Placerville residents claimed a large share of attention last Thursday night among the twenty-seven bank employees of Sacramento and vicinity who claimed graduation certificates at the twenty-ninth annual dinner of the Sacramento Chapter of the American Institute of Banking.

The occasion took place at Hotel Senator, Sacramento, and was notable for Placerville as well as for the Sacramento chapter, since it marked the graduation of a Placerville class which is the first branch chapter class of the American Institute of Banking.

The Placerville class included Ray Ellis, J. K. Jackson, Lester M. McKenzie, Agnes M. Schiff, D. A. Westerman and E. Ogden Hook. The first five named claimed "pre-standard" certificates representing the completion of a four year course.

Among others to whom certificates were awarded were Ralph E. Howland, Virgil W. Simpson and Lilly Visman.

Around The House

With ANN COMFORT

Canned meat or fish should never be served in warm weather without first being thoroughly chilled before being opened.

You can restore an early dwelling but you can't always perpetuate a tradition. This is what Mr. and Mrs. Harry Reaside have done in the restoration of their house.

Last winter the original house, the old Lohry House burned. Cherished and preserved for over 80 years, in 2 hours only the brick shell remained. Upon the old brick structure, the Reasides restored the house without sacrificing the essential design. The brick—laid in that which must have been a favorite in the early days: 6 rows lengthwise and one endwise, were burned in a kiln across the river a half mile from Lotus.

Lotus has an interesting story. Located in the spacious part of the Coloma valley, it flourished in the early years of the gold rush. In 1849 it was called Marshall in honor of James Wilson Marshall; in 1850 it was called Uniontown in honor of California's admission. How it got the poetic name of Lotus I haven't been unable to discover. Perhaps Judge Rasmussen who is an authority on this picturesque little community, can tell us.

During the fifties Lotus continued to be active. The second saw mill in the county was erected here by Athens and Vance. The first bakery is remembered because during that hard winter of 1850 the loaves of bread were very small as the cost of 100 pounds of flour was $50.00. Dr. Doolin was physician and druggist. Early records show that the first fruit was raised by the Cromwell family.

In 1853 Adam Lohry built the brick store which is one of the best preserved in the entire Mother Lode district. It was Adam Lohry who built the Reaside house "a bit of the Old World set down here in the far rugged west" says one romantic description. Although the recent restoration has been done with attention to comfort and modern needs, the air of legend and atmosphere has not vanished entirely. Mrs. Reaside contributes two recipes which come highly recommended:

A-1 Applesauce Cake
1/2 cup butter, 1 cup sugar, 1 egg, 1 1/2 cups unsweetened apple cause, 2 cups flour, 2 teaspoons cinnamon, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 cup chopped dates, 2 scant teaspoons baking soda, 1 teaspoon cloves, 1 cup chopped walnuts.
Bake in moderate oven about 1 hour. It will keep nice and moist for days.

Sour Cream Coffee Cake
(Excellent)
Beat 2 eggs, add 1 cup sugar, 1 cup sour cream (thick), pinch of soda, 2 cups flour, 2 teaspoons of baking powder, 1/2 teaspoon salt. Cover top with a sprinkling of brown sugar, chopped nuts and butter. Bake 1/2 hour in moderate oven.

Steep slices of mutton fat in port wine to give it a rich flavor. Place slices on roast—roll and bind together tightly. Place in pot roast kettle. Add 2 glasses of port wine and 1 of water, salt, pepper and allspice to taste. Cover closely and simmer slowly until tender. Remove what is left of mutton fat, thicken gravy and serve.

From the Ward Wheelock Company in Philadelphia comes a communication asking how the word "tomato" is pronounced in our community. It is pronounced, (1) To-mah-to or, (2) To-ma-to—the "a" as in day?

How do you pronounce it? We snatched the following quotation from my "Book Marks" desk: "The one beauty that time should not be able to take from a woman is her feet." It comes from one of the classics. I would attribute it to a corn cure or a shoe manufacturer.

SACRAMENTO TIES WITH PADRES FOR SECOND IN COAST LOOP

The Pacific Coast League finished its 1941 season yesterday with the Seattle Rinklers, of course, the pennant winner by four games, but with the unusual spectacle of two ties in the standings, one of which will require a playoff before the Shaughnessy series is begun later this week.

Sacramento, which led the league race until a month ago, is tied for second place with the San Diego Padres, and play off the tie Tuesday night at San Diego. The game will count in the Shaughnessy playoff, which continues Wednesday and Thursday at the border city, with the remaining games at Sacramento.

TROPICAL HURRICANE IS SWEEPING TOWARD TEXAS COAST

NEW ORLEANS—(UP)—A violent tropical storm veered toward the Texas coast today with increased speed, the U. S. Weather Bureau reported.

The disturbance was 325 miles south of Lake Charles, La., and about the same distance east of Brownsville, Tex., the bureau reported in an advisory early today.

State Senator H. E. Dillinger was at Plymouth Sunday, attending the Amador County Fair.

Peggy O'Toole, salesgirl in the bargain basement of Meredith's Department Store, is on her way home one day when a passing taxi splashes mud on her. When the young driver stops to apologize, she indignantly squelches him. That evening, at night school, she is surprised to discover him in her French class, and learns that his name is Jimmie Butler. When he asks to escort her home, she again squelches him. Meanwhile, she has become acquainted with the store owner's little granddaughter, Janice, who wandered down into the bargain basement that day while shopping with her governess. A few days later, Mr. Meredith sends for Peggy, tells her that Janice took a great fancy to her, says that the governess has been dismissed for losing track of the child, and offers Peggy the position. When Peggy, resenting his patronizing attitude toward her, rejects his offer, he loses his temper.

"Do you think you were nice to your governess—making her lose her job?"

avid curiosity of her fellow clerks.

"Was it really the old man who sent for you?" one of them asked. "What'd he want?"

"He offered me another job," Peggy said, curtly.

The girl's eyes widened. "Another job? You mean you're going upstairs? Gee kid that's swell for you!"

"It's not upstairs," Peggy snapped. "And I did not take it!"

Throughout the rest of the morning, Peggy's offer of another job and her rejection of it caused excited discussion in the basement store. Peggy kept her lips tightly compressed, and her silence only added to the speculation.

IN THE afternoon, she had a visitor.

Janice pouted. "Well, I didn't like her—an' Grandpa didn't either. It was Mama's idea havin' her."

Then, she threw her arms around Peggy's neck. "But I like you, an' I'll always be awful nice to you when you come to live with us," she promised.

Peggy gently disengaged herself from the child's grasp, and rose. "But I'm not coming to live with you," she said.

Janice's mouth fell open. "Not—coming? Why, Grandpa said you were! An' whatever Grandpa says is so!"

"Not this time," Peggy said firmly.

"But you gotta!" Janice wailed. She began to kick the side of the counter with her heels. "Mama says I'm always 'posed to hav' what I want, an' I want you to come 've with us!"

HER walls and noisy stomping were attracting considerable attention.

Peggy's cheeks were pink. "It's Miss O'Toole! What is the trouble here, Miss O'Toole?"

The floorwalker hurried up, all right, Mr. Gray. "Then to Janice, in a low voice, 'So, this is the way you'd be nice to me!'"

The little girl stopped in the middle of a wall, her eyes round. Peggy turned to Miss Healy. "You'd better take her upstairs," she said crisply.

"Peggy!" Janice caught her arm. "You're not mad at me—really mad, are you?"

Peggy looked down at her with-out smiling.

"I expected you at least to be have like a little lady—not a street rowdy," she said.

She turned her back and started straightening the things on her shelves.

Janice hesitated a moment, then flounced down off the counter.

"C'mon, Healy!" she said rudely. "I'm goin' upstairs where they know who I am an' how to treat me!"

Peggy out of the corner of her eye saw her look back wistfully as she reached the elevator, but Peggy pretended to be absorbed in her work.

THAT evening, at closing time, as Peggy and Anna were putting on their hats, Peggy told her friend of the job Mr. Meredith had offered her.

"Gee, Peg! And you turned it down? Why?" Anna asked.

Peggy told her. "Besides," she added, "I got so mad at old man Meredith before I left his office that I wouldn't have taken the job if he had offered me a million dollars! But please don't ask me anything more just now—I might explode and find myself out of a job all around."

"Okay," Anna murmured. She hooked her arm in Peggy's as they left the locker room. "What you doing tonight? How about taking me up on that date I offered you before—make a foursome with Bud and me?"

"Thanks—but I'm too tired." "Tired!" scoffed Anna, stepping into line to punch the time clock. "You sound like an old woman!"

"I feel like one tonight," Peggy replied.

"Then you ought to get out and go somewhere," Anna insisted. "Just what you need to buck you up. Bud and I are going to a movie—I can get you a date with a swell friend of his if you want to go."

"I don't care for blind dates," Anna said.

"This wouldn't exactly be a blind date, Peg," Anna urged. "I mean—I know the fellow. He works with Bud—and he's a swell guy! C'mon, be a sport! I know you'd like Jimmie, and he's real good-looking, with dark curly hair and—"

"Jimmie?" Peggy repeated. "Yeah—Jimmie Butler."

Peggy stopped and stared at Anna. A tiny smile quivered around her lips.

"Jimmie Butler? And he works with Bud, you say? What is he—a mechanic too?"

"No—he's one of the drivers Bud says he's a swell guy."

"He must be," Peggy said dryly. "This is only about the umpteenth time you've told me so."

"How about it?" Anna demanded, as they emerged on to the street.

"Well, maybe I can go," Peggy said, with a great show of reluctance. "That is, if you're sure this friend of Bud's is all right."

Anna squeezed her arm. "I know he is! Bud thinks a lot of him and Bud never makes a mistake like that. We'll call for you about eight—that all right?"

"All right," Peggy agreed, as they separated.

PUSH PLOWS SUCH AS THIS will take a back seat in the work of keeping the Echo Summit upon to winter travel and the main job of snow clearance will be done by two large rotary plows. This picture, a courtesy of "California Highways," shows push plow snow removal on the Echo summit last March.

SNOW REMOVAL PLANS ON ECHO SUMMIT ROUTE

Mr. Dennis also stated that there would be times during the storm periods when the road would have to be closed while the heavy equipment was at work owing to the narrowness of about 1.6 miles where it would be impossible for traffic to pass. The same condition exists at times, he said, on Donner Summit during the heaviest storms.

Speedy Action Necessary

State Highway Engineer Purcell told the Commission that speedy action was necessary if the road was to be kept open this winter. He said:

"Orders must be placed at once with the factories in the middle west that make the snowplows and the matter of defense priorities must be considered. It will be necessary and Hitchcock voted unanimously to keep the highway open for winter travel and authorized the Division of Highways to make the necessary expenditures for crews, housing and equipment.

Immediately following the meeting State Highway Engineer Purcell got in touch with the snowplow builders and reported to Director Clark he expected the equipment to be delivered about December 1st.

A site for the location of the bunkhouse and other buildings has been secured from the forest authorities comprising five acres near Echo Summit and a crew was immediately put to work clearing the site of trees and underbrush. Lumber, cement and other materials for the four buildings were promptly delivered and the work of building the foundations and framework is under way as this magazine goes to press.

Legislature Passed Bill

The history of the Placerville-Lake Tahoe highway dates from 1854 when public agitation for a "post road or other road from the Sacramento Valley to the Missouri River by way of Great Salt Lake" resulted in mass meetings of citizens in San Francisco, Sacramento, Marysville, Placerville and other places and finally culminated in the Legislature passing a bill creating a commission consisting of the Governor, Secretary of State and Surveyor General to call for bids for the construction of a wagon road from the Valley of the Sacramento over the Sierra to Carson Valley at a cost not to exceed $105,000.

Governor Bigler signed the measure April 28, 1855, but through an oversight the measure failed to appropriate any money for a survey of the proposed route.

Surveyor General Mariette was obliged to advertise for public contributions to carry out the survey and commissioned State Senator Sherman Day, a well known engineer, to locate route for the "Emigrant Road over the Sierra to Carson Valley." Day favored a route which today is the course of the State highway from Sacramento through Placerville to Lake Tahoe, then called Bigler Lake, thence into Carson Valley, Nevada.

When Day completed his survey and returned to Sacramento, Mariette set out with him to make a second survey and later directed George H. Goddard, father of Al Goddard of Sacramento to make a third investigation. Meanwhile, the State Controller refused to audit accounts under the Wagon Road Act and Mariette and those who had contributed were not repaid till April, 1857.

Road Completed in 1858

On May 11, 1857, representatives of Sacramento, El Dorado, and Yolo counties met and $20,000 was subscribed by Sacramento, an equal amount by El Dorado, and $10,000 by Yolo. The Day route was approved and finally in November, 1858, the road linking Sacramento and Placerville with Carson Valley was completed.

Lack of legislative support for the "Emigrant Wagon Road" as it was then called and opposition by interests involved in building the transcontinental railroad resulted sary also to secure a site from the National Forest authorities for the housing and equipment buildings and we have only about three months in which to do all this."

Mr. Purcell added that the cost of snow clearing operations would

The United States department of agriculture called today on all American farmers to marshal their forces for a concerted drive to stamp out insects damaging thousands of dollars worth of crops.

Every farmer was asked to do his part. Farmers in communities were urged to band together to get the best results from their efforts to rid their land of these pests.

Reports up to Sept. 1 revealed that farmers in various parts of the country are having considerable difficulty with insects. Insect specialists of the department of agriculture reported unprecedented numbers of the Japanese beetle in Connecticut. The beetle also has been attacking corn, fruits and berries in parts of New York.

In the meantime, another would-be headliner — the white fringed beetle — is struggling to break through the defense ring thrown around him after he landed on the Gulf coast a few years ago. He is about $40,000 annually.

Unanimous Vote

When the motion was put by Chairman Larry Barrett, Commissioners Nielsen, Vaughn, Bozzani in the road being taken over by private capital. Following the discovery of great silver deposits in Nevada and the resulting excessive traffic from Sacramento over the Sierra to the Comstock and other Nevada mines, the route became a toll road and paid huge dividends to its operators. Years later in 1895, when the Legislature created the State Bureau of Highways, the old pioneer toll road was taken over by the state.

Mrs. Warren Benson was a caller from the Summit section on Monday.

Another pest that has passed from the front pages — but is still the curse of every bean-growing gardener in the east — is the Mexican bean beetle. The bean beetle has been reported generally prevalent throughout New England and is becoming more troublesome in western New York.

A little more cheerful news comes from the booming wool industry which has been greatly strengthened by the defense program.

Mill consumption of apparel wool dropped off somewhat in July — partly because of seasonal factors and partly to labor trouble. However the department of agriculture says that July consumption still was the largest on record. And with mills reporting unfilled orders twice as large as a year ago, the department expects the mills to run as the present rate or higher for the rest of the year.

With this big demand for wool, farmers received the highest prices in 12 years for wool shorn this year. For instance, the average price in mid-August was around 36 cents a pound.

First Snow Of Season Noted On Echo Summit

The first snowfall of the season was reported during the weekend on Echo Summit.

Semi-official sources said Monday that there was a trace of snow on the summit Thursday. During the weekend, however, a real snow developed and Sunday morning reports told of two inches on the summit, extending westerly to Phillips.

The white blanket gave forest fire lookouts a few days leave, their first since the start of the fire season.

Corn-on-Cob Season Calls For Pot-Roast

It's the season for corn on the cob, and other autumn vegetables are also plentiful and tempting. To bring out their full value, what better main dish can you choose than beef pot-roast? A boned and rolled pot-roast is preferred by some home makers because it is so easy to carve. It makes a very fine appearing dish, brown and crisp outside, tender and juicy within.

Beef pot-roasts are cut from the less-tender parts of the animal. The chuck or shoulder section is always a favorite. The beef rumprump makes a good pot-roast, either with or without the bones. A three-cornered boneless cut which makes a fine small pot-roast is the heel of the round.

The same method of cooking is used for any of these cuts. The meat is browned in hot lard, then a small amount of water or other liquid added, the pan is closely covered and the meat cooked slowly for a long time. It may be cooked on top of the range or in the oven, whichever is most convenient.

To give pot-roast a distinctive flavor, spices may be added to the liquid in which it is cooked. Here is a delicious way of preparing it, suggested by Inez S. Willson, home economist.

Savory Pot-Roast
4 pounds beef rumprump or chuck
Clove of garlic

3 teaspoons salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
3 tablespoons lard
1 cup hot water
1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1/4 cup chili sauce

Rub the meat thoroughly with a bruised clove of garlic. Add salt and pepper. Brown the pot-roast on all sides in hot lard melted in a heavy kettle with a tight-fitting cover. Add water, Worcestershire sauce and chili sauce. Cover and simmer gently until meat is tender, about three and a half hours. Turn the pot-roast occasionally. Add more water, if necessary, a little at a time. Make gravy by thickening the liquid with flour smoothed in water.

Serve it with peas and carrots, diced, and corn on the cob.

CITY FIREMEN CALLED OUT BY WASH-HOUSE FIRE MONDAY MORNING

The mid-morning fire alarm on Monday called city firemen to an apartment building on the north side of Main Street adjoining the irrigation district office, where a roof fire badly damaged a wash-house at the rear of the multiple-unit dwelling.

Two washing machines and miscellaneous articles stored in the building were reported as among the loss by Mr. and Mrs. Kelly Longhurst.

The property is owned by A. C. Winkelman.

PLACERVILLE KEGGLERS WIN TWICE AT JACKSON

Two teams of bowlers were at Jackson during the weekend and returned with victories.

The Giants, including E. Gray, R. Whigam, T. McGrath, D. Le Bourveau and Bill White, took two out of three in their match and also were high on pins, 2485 to 2461.

Whigam had a 188 and Gray and White each counted a 182.

Sid's Honey Boys, who include Wedden, Gustavson, Hanley, Bob Vivian and J. Pederson, lost two games in their three-game match but, believe it or not, had a pin total of 2435 as against 2384 for the Jacksonites.

Vivian tossed a 195 with a 544 total and Hanley served up a 188.

Refrigerator prices reduced

The average price of an electric refrigerator 20 years ago was $600.

The average price today is $154 — for a lot better product.

One thing that made this price reduction possible was that millions of people bought electric refrigerators. Volume brought prices down.

And one thing that made volume possible was advertising, which taught people to want electric refrigerators.

That's how advertising helps bring prices down.
